The Silicon Valley Disc Golf Club is a California Public Benefit Non-Profit Corporation with an IRS 501(c)3 designation whose goal is to establish and maintain free play disc golf courses. Funds for the establishment and maintenance of the disc golf courses have come from the disc golf community. There are no “green fees” and no “tee times” needed to play disc golf.

The first disc golf course was established at Hellyer County Park in south San Jose, CA. in 1997. It’s located on the east side of Highway #101 and Hellyer Avenue. The Hellyer course has nine baskets or “holes” with concrete tee pads in both a forward and back position. Parking is free on Hellyer Avenue and there are no restrooms at this site.

The second course established was at Parque de La Raza de Paz in 2007 and is part of the Hellyer County Park complex. “La Raza” has nine baskets and nine rubber mat tee pads, free off street parking, a restroom and is located off of Coyote Road and is directly across Coyote Creek from the Hellyer disc golf course.

The third course established, in 2015, was at the south end of Kelley Park, a City of San Jose Park. Access is through the parking lot off of Phelan Avenue. The City of San Jose charges $6.00 for parking. Free work day parking passes are issued by the Club through the City. The Kelley Park course has eighteen baskets and eighteen rubber mats and there’s a restroom within walking distance of the course.

The most recent course established was at the Villa Maria Picnic Reservation Area in Stevens Creek County Park, in 2018. The County of Santa Clara charges for parking @ $6.00. Free work day parking passes are issued by the Club through the County. Villa Maria has twelve baskets and twelve concrete tee pads. There’s a restroom on site. Access is off of Stevens Creek Canyon Road, which is off of Foothill Boulevard in Cupertino.
